

Foodservice Equipment Testing

Expert Evaluation and Certification Solutions

Foodservice Equipment Services

Intertek tests and certifies foodservice equipment for global compliance with gas/electrical safety, sanitation, EMC, and energy efficiency standards. Whether you manufacture electrical or gas commercial cooking appliances, catering equipment, or hot water boilers – Intertek can provide complete testing and certification services.

Intertek is your passport to entering the global marketplace.

Our ETL certification program demonstrates compliance to North American product safety and sanitation standards. By receiving both the ETL Listed and ETL Sanitation marks through one source, manufacturers benefit from significant time and cost savings. Intertek can also complete your electrical safety testing for certification in as little as 15 days, helping to significantly reduce your product development costs and time to market.

Reduce Your Costs and Time to Market.

Concurrent gas/electrical safety and sanitation testing and certification for foodservice equipment drives your product to market ahead of the competition.
